GRAND KNIGHT'S REPORT

By Dan Knauss, Grand Knight

Dear fellow Brother Knights of Columbus,

Spiritual Thought

Easter is a time of love, of family, and of peace

It is a time when we say quiet thanks
For all that we have and for all that
The future holds.

Easter is a feeling in our hearts of hope and faith and trust.

It is a day of miracles;

A day when our dreams seem a little closer;

A time of retrospection

For what has been and anticipation of all that will be

And it is a time of remembering with love and appreciation

The people in our lives who make a difference...

People like You.

APRIL DINNER MEETING

The regular April Dinner meeting will be held on April 20th in the St. Raphael Parish Hall at 7:00 PM.

MAY LADIES NIGHT OUT

Our next Ladies Night Out will be Monday, May 18th. The location this time will be the Friar's Dining Room at the Old Santa Barbara Mission. As in the past, the meal will be buffet style; the main dishes have yet to be determined. If past history is an indicator, whatever is served will be excellent. MOST important, however, is that reservations have to be made by May 1st. Accompanying the reservation should be a check for $25 per person, to cover the cost of the dinner. In the past, people had made reservations but did not show up. When this happens, the Knights have been stuck paying for the "no-shows". In some cases this amounted to a considerable amount of money.

Reservations are to be made to SK Paul Coyne at:
5451 Toltec Drive
Santa Barbara, CA
93111-1609

STEPHEN SCHLESSELMANN

Stephen continues to make progress in his recovery. At this writing he has been moved from the Medical Intensive Care Unit (MICU) at Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital into a private room on the 5th Floor. He continues to be on a Tracheotomy tube and ventilator. The good news is that the hospital staff has got him to his feet and taking a few steps. They are also seeing what can be done to have him transferred to the Sub-Acute Ward at Goleta Valley Cottage Hospital for further rehabilitation. Stephen continues to receive visitors from fellow Knights as well as family members.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON MAY 19th

On May 19th, there will be a special election throughout the State of California for voters to decide on proposals agreed upon by the California State House of Representatives and Senate to balance the State Budget. Approval of these proposals by the voters will initiate the process of bringing the California State budget into balance.

If you are interested in being one of the poll workers, call our Polling Place Coordinator, Paul Coyne at 967-7880. Paul will also be contacting those volunteers that have worked in the past or in the last election to ascertain your interest. If you are a returning or new poll worker that is interested in participating in the special election, you will have to fill out an "Authorization to Donate" form. NOTE: You do not have to be a 4th Degree member to participate.

SYMPOSIUM ON JUNIPERO SERRA

On Saturday, April 25 at 1 PM, the Santa Barbara Mission Archive-Library will be the scene of a Symposium on Junipero Serra, the namesake of our 4th Degree Assembly. There will be several presentations:

- James and Tish Sandos, "Christi and Junipero Serra: Indian Response to Mission San Diego, 1775".
- Steven Hackel, "Junipero Serra's California Indian Sacramental Community".
- Rose Marie Beebe and Robert Senkewicz, "Junipero Serra and the Peoples of the Santa Barbara Channel".
- Bro. Lawrence Scrivani, "Seeing the Serra Documents through the Eyes of the Archivist".

This Symposium is funded by the cause for canonization of Blessed Junipero Serra and is also sponsored by the Academy of American Franciscan History and the Archive Library. Admission is free and all are welcome. A reception will follow.

Insurance Agent's Report

David Farebrother, Field Agent

Life Insurance 101

The most basic plan of permanent life insurance protection - whole life insurance - calls for premiums to be paid for your entire life, or to age 100. You may also consider another permanent life insurance product - one with guaranteed cash values - that offers a limited period of premium payments. The Knights of Columbus offers three permanent life insurance products for which premiums do not have to be paid for all of life.

"Twenty Pay Life" is exactly as the name suggests - a permanent plan with premiums payable for 20 years. After the premiums are paid for the 20 years, the plan is "paid up" and no more premiums are due. Unlike its term counterpart, however, the plan stays in force, the death benefit remains intact and the guaranteed cash value continues to grow.

Another plan is our "Life Paid Up at 65". With this permanent product you pay premiums until you reach age 65. Then, premiums stop (just in time for retirement), but the plan remains very much in force.

Finally, the ultimate in limited pay is our Single Premium Life product. Imagine buying life insurance - permanent insurance - and only paying one single premium? It's possible.

I have detailed information on all of these products. At your convenience, I'll meet with you and your wife to perform a free, custom-tailored needs analysis, to help determine which of our many life insurance products is right for you and your family.

To contact me with regards to any of your K of C insurance needs, please email me at dlfarebrother@aol.com or call me at either of the numbers listed below. I look forward to hearing from you.

El Paso clergy, scientists at odds over stem-cell research

By María Cortés González / El Paso Times

Posted: 03/12/2009 08:03:38 PM MDT

President Barack Obama on Monday lifted the ban on embryonic stem cell research. Religious leaders in El Paso called the practice immoral.

EL PASO -- Members of the scientific community in El Paso say they are "ecstatic" that President Barack Obama has made a move to fund embryonic stem cell research. Some religious leaders, however, call the use of embryonic instead of adult stem cells "immoral" and destroying one life to save another.

President Obama on Monday signed an executive order that opens the door to more extensive embryonic stem cell research. While calling it a difficult decision, Obama said he is supportive of broader research on embryonic stem cells because of the potential it holds for saving lives and helping those afflicted with diseases like diabetes, Parkinson's and Alzheimer's.

The Rev. John Stowe, spokesman for the Catholic Diocese of El Paso, said the Catholic Church is opposed to embryonic stem cell research.

"An embryo is a human being. Recent research has indicated that the benefits from stem cell research can be obtained from adult stem cells. There is a concern on the part of the church that the increased use of embryonic stem cells for research will lead to the creation of human embryos for research purposes and then to be destroyed," he said.

Pastor Dennis McFarling of Scotsdale Baptist Church also said embryonic stem cell research is simply wrong.

"If it was a viable source of medical healing, there would be so many people investing private money, he wouldn't need to do this," McFarling said.

Like the El Paso diocese and the Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights, McFarling stated that there are ethical alternatives, such as using adult cells.

In September 2008, Konrad Hochedlinger, a Harvard University stem cell researcher, said scientists were able to coax adult cells to regress into an embryonic state. The research was published by the journal Science.

Scientists, however, favor using embryonic stem cells because they are more flexible.

Renato Aguilera, director of a core facility at the Border Biomedical Research Center at the University of Texas at El Paso, said it would be hard to find any scientist "worth two pennies" who would be against embryonic stem cell research.

"It is incredibly important ... and the scientific community has been resentful that the government has interceded in the recent past. It held a lot of very good research back and I think Obama is righting a little bit of wrong," he said.

Aguilera said evidence points to a distinct possibility that embryonic stem cells could help very severe conditions including neurological diseases and spinal injuries.

"The only thing that scares people is the term 'embryonic,' but those are the most primitive cells possible. Without looking at what those cells can do -- perhaps regenerate the whole spine of a crippled individual -- if you stifle that kind of research, you'll never know what potential there will be," he said.

Charles Miller, an associate dean for research at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Paul L. Foster School of Medicine, called Obama's decision a "breakthrough."

"From a scientific point of view, it is a great opportunity to make significant strides in understanding the way particular neurological diseases like Parkinson's work and the treatments to fix those things."

Some religious leaders are supportive of embryonic stem cell research.

Pastor Juan Lawson of Holy Light Church of God in Christ, a former chairman of the department of physics at the University of Texas at El Paso, said he believes the question among the spiritual is when does life begin.

"Based on the Bible, God had already made a full-grown man from the dust of the Earth before breathing life into him. But I would probably take a chance and err on the side of trying to help those in the present who are living with spinal cord injuries. But I do believe we should be careful and ethical in terms of how we get those stem cells," he said.

Bob Reno, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, said in an e-mail that the Presbyterian Church

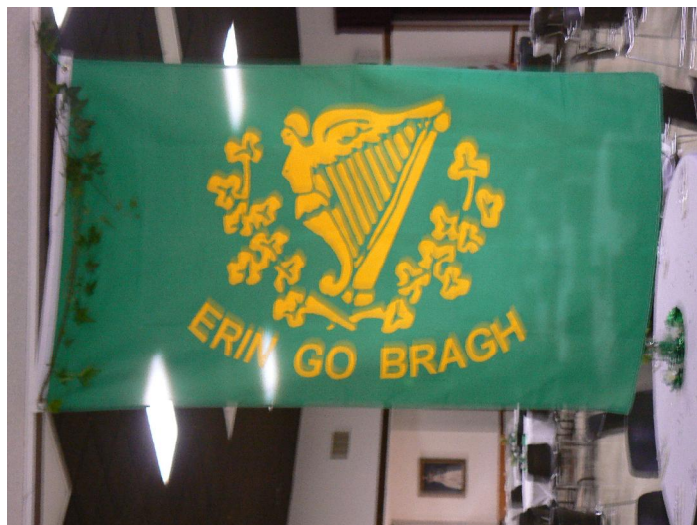

"affirms the use of fetal tissue and embryonic tissue for vital research. Our respect for life includes respect for the embryo and fetus, and we affirm that decisions about embryos and fetuses need to be made with responsibility."

Further the Presbyterian Church supports stem cell research with careful regulation and ongoing public dialogue on what the research finds.

Denise Watkins, director of the Alzheimer's Association, said she doesn't disapprove of more extensive embryonic stem cell research and believes there should be guidelines.

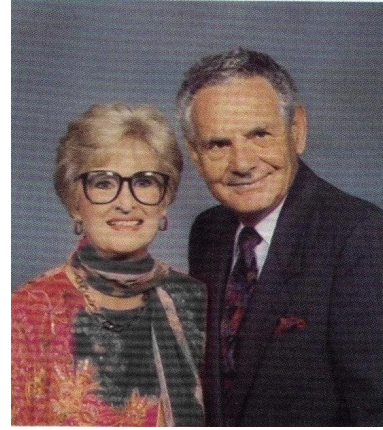

But she points out that no stem cell research has yet to have proved helpful in the treatment of Alzheimer's disease.

"I know that we have to do more research as the number of people who are at risk for Alzheimer's disease is increasingly greatly," she said. "But so far stem cell research has not shown to make a difference, but I'm hopeful."

Ralph V. Modugno, a 61-Year Member of the Knights, and wife Helen, Assisting Parish & Local Knights since 1963

By Joe T. Kovach, 3rd Degree Knight

Ralph Vito Modugno, who joined the Knights of Columbus in 1948, exclaimed, "My greatest personal moment as a KC member was joining the 4th Degree." The owner of the Santa Cruz and 101 Markets in Goleta and Santa Barbara pointed out, "The reason I decided to become a KC member was that it was considered at the time (January 1948) a young men's organization and I enjoyed the camaraderie...most members were in their 20's." His sponsor was Mike Fusano.

"Community service is the best thing about being a KC member," remarked Modugno who received his 4th degree on March 12, 1988.

Ralph's parents, Michael and Anna came from Bari, Italy (located on the "heel" of southern Italy) and were proud of their four children: Ralph, Angie, Frank and Sam. Ralph, the oldest, was born in San Fernando on January 23. He graduated from San Fernando Grammar School and High School. During World War II Ralph served in the U.S. Army Medical Corps and was stationed in Axminster, England from 1942-45.

After the service, Ralph met Helen Grace Barnett while working together in a grocery store in Sun Valley. Helen, a native of Paris, Texas, had six brothers and sisters: Peter, Norma, Janis, Selma, Billy and Louis.

Ralph and Helen were married on October 3, 1952 at St. Ferdinand's Catholic Church in San Fernando by Rev. James Gordan. They are proud parents of David, Janet, Jerry, John, Suzie and Tom and nine grandchildren: Suchawadee Modugno (one year old), Nathan J. Logan, Emily Christine Logan, Kevin Dell, Alexa Dell, Heather Dell, Andrea Modugno, Tony Modugno and Danica Modugno.

The family moved to Goleta in 1963 and became members of St. Raphael Parish. Asked which pastor or priest was extra-special to them in these past 46-years, Ralph specified, "Msgr. Stephen Noel Downes because of his warmth and outgoing personality." Ralph's parish involvements included the Finance Committee, participating in the new Building Fundraising, picnics and Eucharistic Minister for several years. For years he has been most generous by donating food items to the Knights in their weekly Lenten Fish Fry dinners and monthly Pancake Breakfasts. Helen has served as President of the Women's Auxiliary on three different occasions. She taught CCD classes for five years and also was active in Women's Guilds. A few years ago she donated a beautiful yellow rose tree to St. Raphael and it remains in front of the Rectory. Some of the long-time parishioners call Helen, a native of Texas, the Yellow Rose of Texas. According to the couple the best thing about being parishioners at St. Raphael, "is it's a wonderful place to worship our God."

"The keys of my success in the grocery business," Ralph remarked, "were enjoying what you're doing and hard work." Since 1980 he has owned the two stores currently managed by sons John and Tom.

Their travels have taken them to Italy, Hawaii, Mexico, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Switzerland, England, Yugoslavia, Canada and to see the Fall colors of New England, New Orleans, New York, Washington D.C., and various other states.

Other interesting personal items:

Joe and Geri are very committed Members of the Knights and it shows. Joe is instrumental in getting the Knightline to press every month which requires timely and organized effort. Both Joe and Geri are always there to send along an inspiring E-Mail to bring a smile or stir some heart felt feelings. I get them most every day. It's so nice to see them at all of the functions supporting the Knights and helping where the can.

At Our Lady of Sorrows Church, April 19
Musical Group, 'Blest and Broken' to Sing
The Chaplet of Divine Mercy, Provide Music for Holy Mass on Feast of the Divine Mercy

By Joe T. Kovach, 3rd Degree Knight

The seven siblings from the talented Stawiecki (pronounced Stah-vyeh-tskee) family will be singing the Divine Mercy Chaplet and provide music for Holy Mass on the Feast of the Divine Mercy, on Sunday, April 19, at Our Lady of Sorrows Church starting at 2:15 to 4:30 p.m. The event will include Confessions, Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, and reception following Mass.

"We are excited to have this celebration take place at Our Lady of Sorrows, stated Katarzyna (Kasia) Stawiecki, "especially since Rosemary McClintock's two beautiful paintings depicting the Merciful Savior and Saint Faustina are displayed at this parish."

"I think the Blest and Broken musical group deserve all the help we can give them since they did over a year's worth of ministry at St. Raphael Church when they provided music at the 5:30 p.m Saturday Mass," expressed 4th Degree member Paul Curzan. He added, "They have played for a number of KC functions over the past several years."

"Our musical family hopes all the KC members are doing well and finding this Lenten Season a time for spiritual renewal and enrichment," stated Kasia.

"We have finished recording our second album which features the Chaplet of Divine Mercy sung in English and Polish (our own original melody)," according to Agnieszka, older sister of Kasia. The CD has been sent to the manufacturer and should be available soon. In July 2007 their first exceptional CD, "We Remember," featured 13 songs. All seven in the group agree that the three keys to their success are love of God, love of music and patience.

The new CD has arrived and will be selling for $15. Part of the proceeds from the sale will go to Our Lady of Mercy in Krakow, Poland, as well as to the Marians of the Immaculate Conception in Stockbridge, Mass. They will be available at the reception on April 19 or purchased through their website: www.blestandbroken.com.

Following the Moral Compass

By Supreme Knight Carl Anderson

03/30/2009

Recently, the Knights of Columbus commissioned a poll on public attitudes regarding the business ethics of corporate America. The poll, conducted by the Marist College Institute for Public Opinion, found that most Americans – and two-thirds of executives – give corporate America failing grades for honesty and ethics. They also rate the country's business leadership as poor during this time of economic crisis. Among the U.S. public, 76 percent believe that corporate America's moral compass is pointed in the wrong direction. Likewise, a majority of Americans, including two-thirds of executives, gave the financial and investment industries a grade of “D” or “F” in ethical matters.

Asked what they believe to be the primary factors that drive the business decisions of executives, more than 90 percent of Americans – and executives themselves – said that personal career advancement and personal financial gain rank equally high with corporate advantage. Meanwhile, only 31 percent of Americans and 32 percent of executives believe that the “public good” is a strong factor in corporate decisions. When we released the poll results, I said that the present financial crisis was caused in no small part by greed. The public’s confidence in our financial system, as well as in much of corporate America, will not be restored until executives and companies choose to be guided by a moral compass in their business decisions. I am convinced that only a strong commitment to ethical business practices on the part of executives and the companies they lead can restore this confidence.

Interestingly, three-fourths of Americans and more than nine in 10 executives think that a business can be both successful and ethical. Likewise, three-fourths of Americans and 86 percent of executives believe people should have the same ethical standards in business as in their personal lives. However, more than half of executives, and almost three-fourths of Americans, think that most people miss the mark.

To the news media, perhaps one of the survey’s most surprising findings is a consensus that religion provides a good ethical standard for doing business. Nearly two-thirds of Americans believe that religious beliefs should significantly influence executives’ business decisions, and executives are even more likely to agree.

These are all factors that may surprise some in the general public, but not the Knights of Columbus. As every brother Knight knows, the Order has an unwavering commitment to following a moral compass that always points in the same direction, “in season and out of season.”

In his annual letter to Berkshire Hathaway investors, Warren Buffet recently described insurance as “a business of long-term promises, sometimes extending for fifty years or more. This past year has retaught clients a crucial principle: A promise is no better than the person or institution making it.”

I could not agree more. We have kept our promise to the families of our brother Knights for 127 years. This is a tradition that every member of the Supreme Council is dedicated to preserving. Today, that promise continues to be backed not only by the financial strength of an AAA-rated corporation, but also by an unsurpassed commitment to our moral compass.

In Deus Caritas Est, Pope Benedict XVI wrote, “The Church is God’s family in the world. In this family no one ought to go without the necessities of life” (25). The pope then analyzed this principle from the standpoint of both justice and charity.

We are proud that the Order’s leadership is living out our commitment to charity – the first principle of the Knights.

We should be equally ready to emphasize our commitment to justice in terms of our dedication to financial responsibility in our corporate affairs and our leadership as a business enterprise committed to success, ethics and concern for the public good.

Vivat Jesus!
